Too Much Arrears Of School Taxes

It is an extremely regrettable fact that so little attention has been paid to the appeal of the Monitor School District for the payment of taxes, both current and arrears. The District Funds are very low, so low in fact, that it has been necessary for the district to appeal to the Government for assistance in collecting taxes. A list has been made, a copy of which at the Secretary's office, showing the taxes due the district. This list has been sent to the Minister of Education, with an appeal that the most stringent methods be used in collecting the taxes due the district. No less than $4256.36 is at present owing the district, and on Dec. 31st a further penalty of 5% will be added to all taxes unpaid. It is to be regretted that this action was necessary, but, what would you. Appeals from the Board are either ignored or forgotten—there is only one other course open.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star

The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal has announced that after December 31st, 1920, the subscription price of that great weekly will be $2.00 per year in Canada, England, Ireland or Scotland, and $2.50 to the United States. The recent heavy increase in the cost of white paper make the slight advance necessary, in fact it is only a small portion of the increased cost over pre-war prices of production. All renewals and subscriptions, the publishers say, mailed before December 31st, 1920, will be at the old rate of $1.50. Even at the advanced price of $2.00 a year The Family Herald is the best value on the Continent. It is acknowledged to be absolutely without a rival, hence its enormous circulation.

We are glad to report that Geo. Lucas, who has been very ill lately is now much recovered

Safeguarding the Public Health

In previous articles in this series, reference was made to certain subjects, legislation in regard to and administration of which are subject to dual control by the Dominion Parliament and Provincial Legislatures. Among such subjects, which, however, was not previously enumerated, is Public Health.

The Dominion Parliament, which recently created a Federal Department of Public Health, is responsible for the establishment and enforcement of quarantine to prevent the introduction of disease into Canada from abroad; for the establishment and maintenance of Marine Hospitals; for the medical inspection of immigrants, and, generally, work of an educational character affecting the health and well-being of all the Canadian people.

The larger portion of the burden of expense and administration in connection with safeguarding the public health is imposed on the Province, which are responsible for the establishment, maintenance, and management of hospitals, asylums, charities, institutions for the deaf and dumb, blind, mentally deficient, and so forth. Further Provincial legislation the direct and active management of many of these institutions is naturally, and properly, placed upon provincial authorities, but the Provincial Government makes large annual contributions towards the cost of their upkeep.

To a much more general extent than ever before, Governments and people the world over have awakened to a realization of the imperative duty devolving upon them to improve the physical standard and general health of the people; also that the safeguarding and improvement of the public health is not a mere local matter, nor even national, but international. A plague or outbreak of disease in any one country may, in these days of rapid transportation and close communication, threaten all other countries.

People and Governments have, at least come to a realization of the fact that human life is more valuable than the life of domestic livestock; that they have been absurdly inconsistent in the past in expending huge sums to improve the standard of horses, cattle, sheep and swine, and to eradicate disease amongst them, while in many important ways failing to provide for the health and lives of mothers and babies, upon whom depends the whole future of the human race and the citizenship of the world.

It is said to the everlasting credit of the Western Provinces of Canada that they are well in the lead in the adoption of the most approved laws and methods of sanitation, inspection of food supplies, the provision of grants to needy expectant mothers, in the payment of mothers' pensions, in the establishment of the most modern and best equipped hospitals, asylums and sanatoriums. The scheme of union hospitals for groups of adjacent municipalities is one of the finest things yet devised, because through this plan, hospital facilities are being brought within reach of the people living in isolated rural communities. The expense imposed on Provincial and municipal treasuries is heavy, but it is money well spent, and will pay large dividends in better health and a higher physical standard in the years to come, not forgetting the hours of suffering prevented or lessened to the people of today.

While recognizing that the safeguarding and promotion of the public health and the prevention of disease is primarily a duty of Governments, the fact is also recognized that no Governmental body can meet the whole need. Furthermore, a Government can only move along advanced lines as rapidly and to the extent that public opinion will support. Hence there have been brought into being many voluntary organizations to act as assistants to Governments, and to undertake certain duties which can be more efficiently carried on by such organizations than by a Department of Government. There are, for example, the Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, the Association of Mental Hygiene, the Babies' Welfare organization, the Society for the Prevention of Venereal Diseases, the St. John Ambulance Association, Children's Aid Societies, and the Red Cross with its peace-time programme for "the improvement of health, the prevention of diseases and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world."

All these organizations are aids to Government. They carry on educational propaganda. They employ experts in their various branches. They render invaluable service in many ways and to an extent which the average man and woman little realizes. In addition to being aids to Governments, they are a spur to them, urging them on to greater reforms, and educating the people to demand these reforms and to support Governments in carrying them into effect.

Taken all in all, public health matters constitute one of the most important duties of our Provincial Governments in this more enlightened age.

Plans and estimates for another new irrigation district in Southern Alberta, have been approved by the Minister of the Interior. The necessary steps for the formation of an irrigation district under the Alberta Irrigation District Act will be taken immediately.

Iron Ore in Alberta

Investigations Would Appear to Prove that Iron Does Not Exist in Any Considerable Quantity.

Whether or not Alberta possesses commercial quantities of iron ore will be known in the near future. Investigations have been going on for some time under the supervision of Prof. J. A. Allan, and a report is almost ready to be handed down. It is said that this report will state the fact that iron ore deposits do not exist in any considerable quantity except in one point which lies in the Crow's Nest Pass country.

The deposits at Sheep Creek which were supposed to be important, have proven a fizzle.

U.S. Would Bar Wheat For Year.

An embargo for one year against the importation of wheat, wheat flour, barley, rye, oats, flax, wool, hogs, cattle and sheep is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Young, Republican, North Dakota. He also introduced a bill establishing a permanent schedule of import duties upon these items after the one-year embargo.

A MOTHER'S TRIALS

Care of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown.

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her constitution. No wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. So many women have grown to accept these ailments as a part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple and trifling at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill she must make her blood rich to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman in the world needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to perfect health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new blood, and through their use thousands of weak, ailing wives and mothers have been made bright, vigorous and strong. If you are ailing, feel tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself, and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. What this medicine has done for others it will surely do for you.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at six a box or six boxes for $2.50 from "The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

Good Market for Canadian Butter

Predicted That Prices Will Continue at a Level That Will Encourage Production.

"To forecast prices for the next few years would be dangerous even for a sage, but I venture to assure you that butter prices will continue at a level that will encourage production," said President J. A. McPeeters, of the Canadian Creamery Association at the opening of the annual convention at Toronto.

"In Montreal, the great butter centre of Canada, the receipts for the 1920 season has been about 71,000 packages (about 16 carloads) less than last year's. The output of creamery butter in the west for 1920 will about equal that of last year."

A Diminutive Calf.

J. Palmer, a Moosemin dairyman, is the owner of a calf which, for diminutive size, breaks all local records. The calf, whose mother is a 1,600 pounder, weighed just 10 pounds when two days old, and is said to be about the size of a lamb. This wee heifer is as smart on its feet as the ordinary calf several times its size.

Board to Sell 1921 Wheat.

The Canadian Council of Agriculture has formulated a plan for handling the 1921 wheat crop of Western Canada, through the United Grain Growers. The organization having charge of the selling will be a board of eight members representing the different provincial grain growers associations. The farmers are to be asked to pledge themselves to sell their wheat only through the board, for a period of five years at least.

Then you are getting real Aspirin—the genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over nineteen years. Now made in Canada. Handy tin boxes containing 12 tablets cost but a few cents. There is only one Aspirin—Bayer. You must say "Bayer."

Professor H. Strauss, M. D., of the Royal Charity Hospital, says, "The cause for an attack of gout, rheumatism, lumbago, is supplied by the increase of uric acid in the blood serum, the result of various causes, the most frequent of which is food. Before an attack, one suffers sometimes from headache, neuritis, twinges of pain here and there."

When your limbs feel like lumps of lead, when the back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you have rheumatic joints or lumbago, gout, sciatica, or pain at your nearest drug store "Anurie" (anturic acid).

This is the discovery of Dr. Pierre of the Invalid Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. "Anurie" is an antidote for uric acid poisoning and dissolves uric acid in the body much as hot coffee dissolves sugar.

Anurie will penetrate into the joints and muscles, and dissolve the uric acid accumulations. It will stamp out toxins. Montreal, Que.—"I cannot praise Dr. Pierre's Anurie (anti-uric acid) enough for what it has done for me. For three months I was under the doctor's care and got no better. I was always complaining of my kidneys. I did not know what to do. I read about Anurie and made up my mind to try it. I have taken two boxes and don't complain any more. I have gained in weight and am still gaining. My appetite is great and sleep has come to me. That is what the Anurie Tablets have done for me. I do truly recommend them to those who are suffering the way I did. The tablets are mighty good, though not expensive. I am in very hot water here."—T. A. BROWN, 388 Dorchester St. W.

Sent 10 cents to Dr. Pierre's Invalid Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

Agents Are Nuts!

"Let me have sleeping accommodations on the train to Ottawa," I said to the man at the window, who didn't seem at all concerned whether I took the trip or stayed at home.

"For a single passenger?" he finally said.

"No," I replied, "I'm married but I'm not taking anybody with me. A single self will answer."

"Upper or lower?" he asked.

"What's the difference?" I enquired.

"A difference of fifty cents," came the answer.

"Our prices to Ottawa are $2.50 and $3.00."

"You understand of course," exclaimed the agent, "the lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower berth. If you want it lower you'll have to go higher. We'll put the upper lower than the lower. In other words the higher the lower."

"Why do they all prefer the lower?" I broke in.

"On account of its convenience," he replied. "Most persons don't like the upper, although it's lower, on account of it being higher, and because when you occupy an upper you have to get up to go to bed, and then get down when you

BILIOUSNESS

How to Prevent and Cure

Among the earliest symptoms are turned tongue and dull headache. Then come dizzy spells, bad taste, quick pulse, fever and cold sweats.

Finally, sleeplessness and vomiting make the condition of the sufferer almost intolerable.

The root of biliousness is with the liver which is clogged and can't keep bile from getting into the blood.

Nothing works with the certainty of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they act directly on the liver, restore the bile to its proper course and prevent it from contaminating the vital fluid.

Of course, the bowels are ordered and relaxed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills; the kidneys receive new tonic, the blood is renovated, and the result is a renewal of health.

No need for delay, the sooner you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the sooner you'll feel the brisk, keen satisfaction of a healthy, well-regulated system. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c.

CHAPTER XIX.

Of The Tribe Of Broadbrook.

Mr. Smythe stood with his back to the fireplace, his long arms behind his back, with sharp elbows almost touching, and claw-like hands clasped together.

The evenings were getting chill. Already the first snows had come. The trees were bare and creaked in the wind, and the skies were lead-colored and cold.

In the early dusk the two dozen gray shadows of Bridgetown looked grayer and lonelier than ever. Mr. Smythe glanced at the long clock near the door and then out of the smoky window, his pointed nose fairly sniffing the wind and his big ears fairly pointed forward in a listening attitude.

The long figure of a man, half reclining on a pile of furs at the end of the counter, stirred, and the substance of a quid of tobacco hissed into the hickory coals, and then a pertly snuffing to the eloped hands of Bridgetown's general merchant. Mr. Smythe smiled with his thin lips and looked murder with his little weak eyes. Then he coughed.

"If you wish to make Bushwhacker's Place to-night," he said, addressing his tardy visitor, "you'd better be starting out on your way."

No response from the man on the furs, except another hiss in the coals. "Looks as though we'd have a big snowstorm," suggested Smythe.

"Snow or rain, light or pitch dark, who's caring?" started the other.

"It's not a dec sort of trip you have before you, is it?"

"It's no less to take it, I guess, and I'm not going to move an inch till you give me an extra pound of powder and enough lead for a hundred bullets. You hear me?"

"I have paid you all your furs are worth; you know I have."

"Aye, and made me pay ten times too much for what I had during the summer. Come now, Smythe, wrap up the powder and give me the package of lead, and I'll be making tracks."

Broadbrook arose and shuffled forward. He was dressed in a heavy shirt of red wool and homespun trousers of gray. One ponderous hand held a long rifle and a coat of wolf-skin was slung across a muscular arm. Smythe eyed him speculatively.

"Broadbrook," he said slowly, "you shall have it. I wouldn't do it for anybody else."

Broadbrook scratched his short-cropped head perplexedly. Acuteness was not one of his characteristics. He had no sense of the carelessness to oblige him to fear, and Broadbrook was not so many generations removed from the Cave Dwellers that he could not understand how this might well be. By nature he was a bully, one of a large family of bullies, whose forefathers had been bullies. Accordingly he stretched his poison about four inches higher and exalted on a pair of beaded moccasins hanging from the counter.

"Make it two pound o' powder an' two sheels o' lead," he demanded.

Smythe, who had taken the powder from the shelf, put it back in its place. Then he leaned over the counter and gazed at the Bushwhacker through the twilight gloom.

"I guess I've changed my mind. I won't give you an ounce of either."

he said. "And I'm going to charge you up with those moccasins. You've spoiled them. You can't bluff me. Broadbrook—you, nor any of your six-foot brothers, nor your old sinner of a father. You're all a bad lot. Now, you get out of my store."

Broadbrook's six-foot-two went down to five-foot-ten at a jump, and his jaw dropped as though he had been struck.

"I didn't mean to spile nothin'," he grumbled. "I'm willin' to take what you agreed to give."

Smythe gravely lit a couple of candles, one of which he took over and placed in the windows. Then he came from around the counter and stood in his former attitude, his nose pointing forward and his ears cocked for an expected sound. After a while he turned toward the trapper.

"Broadbrook," he said, "I've been pretty decent with you and your family, and all the thanks I ever got for it was in being dumped out of my skill last fall by one of your murderous tricks. I won't let his fault that I wasn't drowned."

Broadbrook's snatched himself on a kee.

"That was Hank," he nodded. "Me an' Hank hasn't spoke for nigh eight year."

"Humph, you don't say! Well, Hank, as you call him, wants to keep out of my way. I've got a good Christian spirit, Broadbrook, but a nasty disposition at times. The next time Hank arises to mix in with me, I'm going to be right here."

"That's not much size to you to be callin' my draw the way you've been doin'," murmured Broadbrook. "I reckon I'm a good deal of a gentleman."

"I reckon I'm a good deal of a gentleman," murmured Broadbrook. "I reckon I'm a good deal of a gentleman."

Tom, nearest skunk in the woods, Tom Hank, Hank's not much better'n Tom. And Alex, who claims as he'll do for me some day.

"Nice, loving sort of family, eh, Sambo?" sneered Smythe. "How about the old man, the father?"

"Dad's all right in some ways, but I ain't got no sort o' use for him either," answered Broadbrook. "Fact is, none of us has much use for the others. We ain't built that way. Hank shot my eye out with a bow an' arrow when we was kids and playin' bear hunt, and we treed Alex and cut the tree down and broke both his legs once. Jest in fun, o' course; but he's had it in for us ever since, jest for that."

"And what did you do to Tom? Surely he has not escaped unscathed, has he?"

"Well, hardly. Tom he got drowned once by bein' pushed off a log into the creek. If that fool of a Declute hadn't o' happened along Tom would o' stayed drowned, too."

"Know a man by the name of McTavish down there, I suppose?"

"Sure, I know him, and I know that boy of his too. I hate him, and he keeps out of my way, 'cause he's scared of me."

"Liar," breathed Smythe. He stood gazing into the fire for some time. At last he turned and fixed his eyes on Broadbrook's face.

"Never heard tell of an Indian down in that place by the name of Noah Sturgeon, did you?" he asked.

"Sure, I know him," answered the other.

"Know him?" Mr. Smythe's words were like a pistol shot. "Knew him, you mean," he cried, leaning forward.

"I say knows him, and I guess I understand what I'm talkin' about."

"But the Noah Sturgeon I mean"

"Not much, it ch's. It's Amos. Then I've got three more brothers."

can't be alive now. He was an old man twenty years ago. Must be a son of his you know, Amos."

"Son nothin'." I tells you, mister, it's old Noah himself as I knows. O' course he's old—must be nigh a hundred. But he's spry yet. Often comes over to Big McTavish's, he does. Lives on the P'int 'cross the bay."

Smythe drew forward a stool and sat down with his chin in his hands. He was disturbed in his meditations by Broadbrook's standing up.

"Guess I'll better be trappin'," said that gentleman.

"Wait a momeint," said Smythe. "I'm going to give you two pounds of good powder, and a couple of sheels of lead. If you will come back here, say, next Saturday, I'll give you more—much more. But you must do something for me, will you?"

"Name it, and I'll do it," promised the delighted trapper.

Smythe glanced fearfully toward the door, and, glancing across to it, shut Sambo in the other room, then bending his whispering soundings in Broadbrook's ear. Whatever it was, it seemed to astound and not altogether displease the burly fellow. His red face screwed itself up in a horrible grimace and he guffawed loudly.

"Course, if y' gimme the three hundred, I'll send old Noah scurrying," he wheezed.

"Broadbrook," said Smythe sternly, "don't mistake my meaning. I know there is danger of accident to the aged and frail, and that life's ruddy current flows but sluggishly in the veins of old men; but, my dear Broadbrook, no violence—no violence remember. However, when I am sure, without a doubt, that Noah has departed—ahem!—to some remote country for good, why, the money is yours. You see he won't let the other Indians sell me their furs, but makes them carry them to St. Thomas."

Broadbrook chuckled and poked Mr. Smythe in the short ribs so forcefully and playfully that the storekeeper's light eyes filled with tears and his breath came and went in gasps.

HEART SO BAD WAS NOT SAFE TO LEAVE HER ALONE

Miss Eva P. Vetterly, Krugersdorf, Ont., writes: "I feel that I must write and tell you of the benefit I have received from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. About four years ago I was taken terribly bad with my heart, nerves and fainting spells, and was down in bed for about six months. I tried with the different doctors and seemed to get better, although the fainting spells would not leave me. I would take a terrible fall, wherever I was, that it was not safe to leave me alone at any time. At last I decided to resort to proprietary medicine and took several different kinds, but seemed to receive but little benefit from them. One day noticing the advertisement of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I decided to try them, and before I had taken more than two boxes I could see they were helping me. I have taken about ten boxes, and am almost cured of those terrible spells. I sincerely feel that your medicine has proved a blessing to me, and I advise any one troubled with their heart to try them, as I am confident they will find relief."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Big Immigration Movement.

It is estimated that the immigration movement to Canada will be responsible this year for nearly 200,000 newcomers, these being largely from Great Britain and the United States. Canada's high water mark in immigration was reached in 1913, when 403,436 persons entered the Dominion. The first six months of the present fiscal year saw the entry of 95,005 immigrants, which shows an increase of 3 per cent. over the same period in the previous year.

Trim Riding Habit Of Tan Gabardine

By Gertrude Heresford.

Tan gabardine is the material from which this interesting riding habit is originated. The coat is cut in effective style and is quite long. Small straps of the cloth conceal the openings of the pockets. The breeches are reinforced with tan-colored leather that matches the top boots. An Ascot tie of heavy silk forms a pleasing background for a diamond pin. The tricorn hat is fashioned from dark brown hatter's plush. Of course, should the wearer of this costume prefer it, she might substitute a regulation derby. And a bright-colored vest might be introduced if she should so elect.

War Brought Wealth to Negro.

A negro at Seaford, Delaware, suddenly became wealthy as a result of four of his sons being killed during the war. Each of the sons had a $10,000 war risk insurance policy, so that Selby is now due to receive $40,000, which will be paid to him at the rate of $230 a month for twenty years.

Farmers Elevator Co. Pays.

At the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company held recently in Regina, it was stated the earnings for the year ending July 31st, 1920, were $24,988. One of the best known guides in Nova Scotia gives this testimonial of MINARD'S LINIMENT:—"I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my home, hunting and trapper camps for years and consider it the best white liniment on the market. I find that it gives quick relief to minor accidents, such as sprains, bruises and all kinds of wounds. Also it is a great remedy for coughs, colds, etc., which one is liable to catch when fog driving and cruising during winter and spring months. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT and cannot recommend it too highly."

The Chinese and the Famine.

Although the greater part of China's vast expanse is unusually prosperous this year, some 30,000,000 of her population are in actual danger of starvation due to famine. Evidently China's "advanced" politicians are not advanced enough to deem alleviating one of their duties.

Probably the worst mistake a man can make is to correct the mistakes of his friends.

The Land of Wheat

Dr. Butler Says Nine-Tenths of Crop Is Grown in Northwest.

Dr. A. H. R. Butler, professor of botany at the University of Manitoba, in an address at the Royal Canadian Institute, Toronto, on Canadian wheat, said that nine-tenths of the Canadian wheat crop was grown in the northwest, Saskatchewan, ranking first in production, and Manitoba and Alberta following in this order.

Stating that at present not one-tenth of the good wheat land in Canada was under cultivation Dr. Butler predicted that the time would come when Canada would produce more wheat than the United States and the United States would be looking to this country as the source of her supply of bread.

Tribute was paid by Dr. Butler to the discoverer of Marquis wheat, Dr. Saunders. Since 1909 the success of this wheat had been phenomenal, he said.

ASTHMA CURED

TO STAY CURED

Thousands testify to the lasting benefit secured from CATARRHOZONE

CURES WITHOUT DRUGS.

One of the finest discoveries in medicine was given to the public when "Catarrhozone" was placed on the market about fifteen years ago. Since then thousands have been cured of asthma and catarrh. An interesting case is reported from Calgary in a letter from Creighton E. Thompson, who says:

"Nothing too strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Findlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh."

The one-dollar package lasts two months; small size, 50c; sample size, 25c; all storekeepers and druggists, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.
